Choose a modern alternative to tiles

Multipanel to exhibit at Clerkenwell Design Week for the first time

Visitors to Clerkenwell Design Week (23rd-25th May), will be able to see first-hand Multipanel's extensive collection of wall panels and flooring options, as the company opens its doors to its newly renovated showroom in London.

A first for the company, Multipanel's presence at Clerkenwell affirms their position as the leading alternative to bathroom tiles. On display will be several of Multipanel's design-led bathroom panels, including The Tile Collection with a sneak peak of new decors which are set to launch later in the year.

Over the course of the three days, Multipanel will be hosting several events from its showroom, including lunch and learn events on sustainable specification and modern innovation, as well as a networking drinks reception on the first day between 5.30-6.30pm. For those looking to learn more on the leading bathroom design trends for 2023, Multipanel is hosting a trends workshop on Wednesday 26th from 5.30pm with guest speaker Egger.

John Mortimer, Sales Director at Multipanel, says: "Exhibiting at Clerkenwell is a huge milestone for us, as the event is regarded as the UK's leading design festival where only the most cutting-edge products are on show for the interiors market.

"There is strong demand for design-led alternatives to tiles that can deliver several other benefits including easy installation, cost-effectiveness and easy maintenance and our decision to exhibit provides visitors with the opportunity to explore these options.

We are also conscious of the ever-growing demand for sustainable products that don't compromise on style, and we are excited to be able to put on a series of events and talks over the three days that really highlight what wall panels have to offer. We hope to see you there!”

Multipanel bathroom wall panels are available in a range of surface designs, including marble, granite, wood and tile effect.
